

Menhir

Year	1983 - 2020
Designer	Giotto Stoppino, Lodovico Acerbis

With a daring approach to materials, the Menhir low table becomes a composition of colors and textures that eloquently illustrate the sculptural simplicity of Lodovico Acerbis and Giotto Stoppino inventions of new forms. With a Greek-like classicism, the table's column connects the monumental marble base.

Newly conceived in three different heights, the Menhir low table vaunts a more dramatically-sized round top, and now appears as a tall console as well – a concept from the original designs today in production for the first time.

The tops are available in glossy lacquered finishes in burgundy, pink, dark green, mustard yellow, brick red, clay, white and black or in the special inlaid and brushed open grain veneer, in black ash and dark stained walnut.

The drums have five different sizes and are available in matt marble, in the white Carrara Statuario white, Marquinia black, Levanto red and Alpi green finish.
